The evidence produced before the Court by the prosecution is to the effect that the accused on 8th January 2005 at 8.15pm exposed his private part in the middle of a crowded public place, that is, in Baystreet and started masturbating in public.

A ten year old girl brought this fact to her mother's notice and when the woman turned towards the accused and saw what he was up to, she took her child away from the scene and together with her husband, filed a Police report. The woman recognised the accused in Court as the same man who had exposed and played with himself.

Both parents assured the Court that their child was disgusted with matter but not defiled, since the entire matter was over in a few seconds.

The Court furthermore heard the plea of guilt entered by the accused.

Therefore, the Court finds the accused guilty of the first offence, not guilty of the second offence and acquits him and after having seen Art 209, Art 28A, Chapter 9 of the Laws of Malta, condemns the same to three months imprisonment suspended for two years under a suspented supervision order with the supervision of the probation officer to be nominated by the Director of Probation Services.

The accused had also undertaken to attend a therapy with a clinical psychologist of his choice for a minimum period of one year, with at least two sessions per month to treat his condition.

The Court notes that the accused has already released the psychologist from professional secrecy to enable the probation officer to enquire and report for his attendance of the above mentioned sessions to the same Court.
